

How to Set Up Your New Gmail Account

Step 1. First things first, you need to head over to gmail.com.

Step 2. Click on the button that says "Create Account."

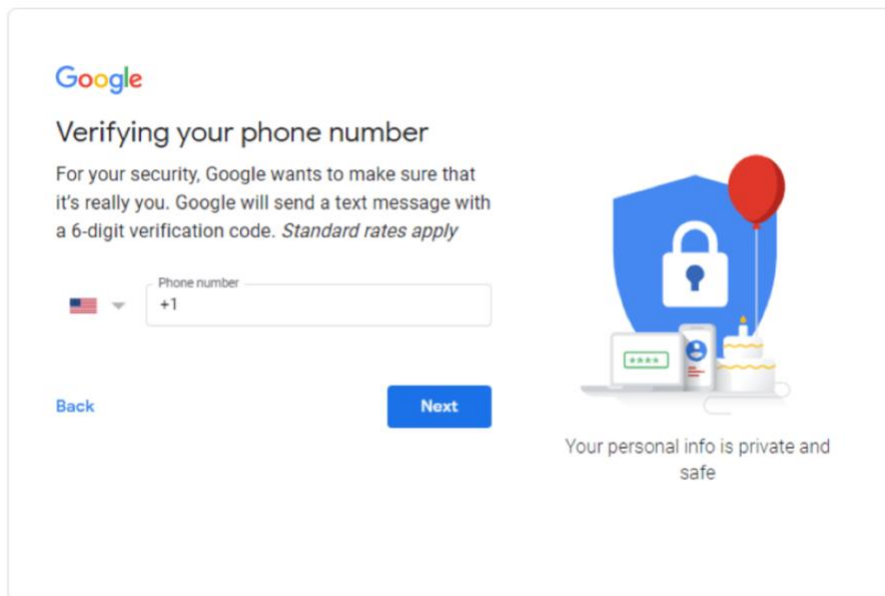

Step 3. After that, the sign-up form will appear. You'll need to fill in all the details it requests: first name, last name, a new username, and a new password.

The image shows a screenshot of the Google Account creation page. At the top left is the Google logo. Below it, the heading reads "Create your Google Account" followed by "Continue to Gmail". The form contains several input fields: "First name" with the value "Terry", "Last name" with "Jones", "Username" with "terryjonesripmontypython@gmail.com", "Password" (masked with dots), and "Confirm" (also masked). A note states "You can use letters, numbers & periods". To the right of the form is a blue shield icon with a white person silhouette, and below it are icons for YouTube, Gmail, and Maps. The text "One account. All of Google working for you." is positioned below these icons. At the bottom left is a link "Sign in instead" and at the bottom right is a blue "Next" button.

Step 4. Next, you'll be asked to enter a phone number to verify your account. This is because Google uses a two-step verification process to boost security. You can find out more about two-step verification here.

The screenshot shows the Google account verification interface. At the top left is the Google logo. Below it, the heading reads "Verifying your phone number". A sub-heading explains: "For your security, Google wants to make sure that it's really you. Google will send a text message with a 6-digit verification code. Standard rates apply".

On the left, there is a dropdown menu for country codes, currently set to the United States flag. To its right is a text input field labeled "Phone number" containing "+1". Below the input field are two buttons: "Back" on the left and "Next" on the right.

On the right side of the screen, there is a graphic illustration featuring a blue shield with a white padlock, a red balloon, a laptop, a smartphone, and a birthday cake. Below this graphic, the text reads: "Your personal info is private and safe".

Step 5. You should now receive a text message with a verification code from Google. If this hasn't been delivered within a few minutes, you can use the automated call system instead.

Step 6. Once you've verified your account, you will see a form that asks for some personal information. This includes a recovery email, your birthday, and your gender. If you're not comfortable giving these or want to find out why Google is asking for this information, there is plenty of information on offer during the sign up.

Welcome to Google

terryjonesripmontypython@gmail.com

 Phone number (optional)
don't look at my phone number google

We'll use your number for account security. It won't be visible to others.

Recovery email address (optional)

We'll use it to keep your account secure

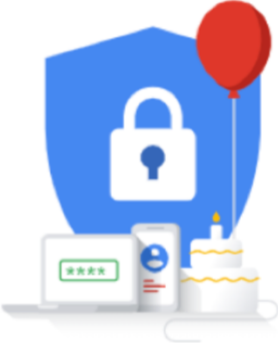

Day Month Year

Your date of birth

Gender

Why we ask for this information

Back Next

Your personal info is private and safe

Step 7. You now need to accept Google's Terms of Service and their Privacy Policy – it's highly recommended that you review both of these in detail before clicking "I Agree."

Step 8. You should now have your new Gmail account.

How to Open Your New Gmail Account

Step 1. Return to the main Google screen and click the Gmail link.

 Search Google or type a URL

Step 2. Once you sign in you'll be brought through the Gmail introductory steps. After the last introductory screen, a popup appears announcing that your new Gmail account is ready to use.

Step 3. Enjoy your new email account and look at ways to level up your Gmail account to get the most from it.